PREFACE.

THIS Volume, the eighty-second of the Zoological Record, deals mainly with the publications of 1945. It includes also those which, for various reasons, were not recorded in previous volumes, and particularly the literature which was issued in enemy and occupied countries during the war and has now reached England.

Articles in non-European languages, unless they are accompanied by an abstract in a European language, are not included. Articles and books which have not yet reached this country, but concerning which knowledge has been obtained from other sources, are recorded as far as the information permits. They will, if necessary, be dealt with more fully when they can be seen by the Recorders.

MALCOLM SMITH,
Editor.

I. Comprehensive Zoology

ARRANGED BY

J. P. HARDING, Ph.D.

This section includes works that deal with more than one branch of Zoology, or that are of general interest to Zoologists. It is, therefore, not complete in itself as regards any one subject included in it. The special records complete each subject. A few memoirs included in the special records are repeated in this division. No attempt is made to include all works on Genetics or Physiology as these subjects are more suitably covered by the Imperial Bureau of Animal Genetics, Resumptio Genetica or Physiological Abstracts.

III.—SYSTEMATIC INDEX

N.B.—FULL REFERENCES ARE GIVEN ONLY IN THE CASE OF A NEW GENUS, SPECIES OR VARIETY. IN OTHER CASES THE NUMBER IN "Large Bold Clarendon" REFERS TO THE LIST OF TITLES WHERE THE FULL REFERENCE WILL BE FOUND. WHERE THE REFERENCE IS GIVEN IN THE SYSTEMATIC PART, THE VOLUME NUMBER IS PRINTED IN Smaller Clarendon.

Note.—The arrangement here used follows, in general, that of Thiele's Handbuch. The most important differences are that Epitoniacea and Pyramidellacea are placed immediately preceding Muricacea in order of grouping, and the families Triviidae and Eratoidae are placed in Lamellariacea.

Where more than one page is given in a reference, the one in roman type is where a new name is first mentioned and the one in italic is where the gen. or sp. is actually described.

STRUCTURE

Segmentation.—Primary cephalic segments referred to as preantennal (priooral, may or may not carry visual surface of eye), antennal (comprising frontal lobe, eye-ridges and part behind, palpebral lobes) first leg segment, second leg segment, third leg or preoccipital segment, fourth leg or occipital segment. Transverse suture separating transitory pygidium from the cephalon interpreted as a secondary suture crossing the primary cephalic segmentation thus the first thoracic segment is considered as composed of posterior part of the occipital segment and anterior part of first post-cephalic segment; similarly subsequent segments are considered as containing portions of two succeeding post-cephalic pleurae coalesced along the pleural furrows. The structures in Limulus are said to confirm this, STØRMER 108.

Cephalon.—Terminology of extant names of structures discussed and some additional names added, R. & E. RICHTER 88.

Glabella.—Terminology of furrows from back to front, neck furrow, first side furrow (Seitenfurche 1) second side furrow etc., R. & E. RICHTER 88.

Fixed cheek.—Terminology — Eckfurchen [Angle furrows] run from dorsal furrows to outer border furrow, R. & E. RICHTER 88.

Cephalic sutures.—Perrostratal suture of Olenellidae not considered a primary segmental boundary but homologised with marginal suture of Hypoparia and with facial plus rostral suture of other trilobites; stated (p. 144) that "the marginal suture was apparently present in the larva of all trilobites"; marginal suture considered primary, subsequent course in evolution "is dependent on a rapid or arrested dorsal development of the preantennal segment in the larva." Connective sutures considered as of secondary formation, STØRMER 108.

Facial Suture.—Terminology — Barande used  $\alpha$  to describe the point where front end of suture appears on dorsal surface, and  $\omega$  where hind margin reached; further Greek letters proposed as follows:— $\beta$ , the extreme outer point reached in the course of the pre-ocular branch of the suture (except where this point coincides with  $\alpha$ ),  $\gamma$  the anterior and  $\epsilon$ , the posterior points of the eye curve with  $\delta$  the outermost point of the curve between  $\gamma$  and  $\epsilon$ ; the pre-ocular branch of the suture is thus  $\alpha$ — $\gamma$  and the post-ocular branch  $\epsilon$ — $\omega$ , R. & E. RICHTER 88.

Thorax.—In developmental history of Redlichia intermedia, long thoracic pleural spines lose their dominance as adult stage reached. Locus of axial spine dominance considered a specific rather than a family character as claimed by Kobayashi, LU 47.

Panderian Organs classed as three types (a) Asaphus type, elliptical elevation, long axis about 1 mm., short axis about 0.5 mm.; seen in Asaphus, Basilicus, Isotelus, Megalaspis, Ogygia, etc. (b) Nileus type as for (a) but longer—nearly 2 mm. in length; nervure lines curve in front of fold through 90°; (3) Symphysurus type, more elongated than (b), nearly four times that of Asaphus type, nervures reflexed as in Nileus. The function of the organ is that of a buttress which limits the sliding of the pleurae during enrolment; no natural perforation in the organ, HUPÉ 35.

Pygidium.—Importance of pygidial double characters in Illaenid specific determination, BEGG 11.

Spines.—Lateral pygidial spines in Cryphina may be internal double structures, R. & E. RICHTER 93.

Laboratory Technique.—Moulds of fossils in metal, RASETTI 62.—Photography aided by Ammonium Chloride or Magnesium Oxide powder, RASETTI 63.

Restoration.—New reconstruction of Terataspis, REIMANN 77.

PHYSIOLOGY

Excretion.—Tomaculum (not necessarily of Trilobite origin) considered to be of stratigraphical importance, BEYER 12-15.—PÉNEAU 55.—R. & E. RICHTER 91.—VOLK 121.

DEVELOPMENT

Developmental stages.—Synoptic history of previous work, many of original illustrations reproduced; protaspis period divided into two, anaprotaspis and metaprotaspis, new figures given of protaspids of Liostracus, Olenus, Holmia kjerulfi? (Kjaer's 1916 pl. vi, fig. 1), STØRMER 108.—Palaeolenus early stages of cranidia, LU 48.

Developmental History of *Redlichia described and compared with that seen in Mesonacidae, LU 47.

EVOLUTION AND CLASSIFICATION

Taxonomy of group.—Trilobita viewed as a class of taxonomic value equal to Marrellomorpha Beurlen, Merostomoidea nov. (for Emeraldellida nov., Cheloniellida Broili, Prochelicera nov.), Pseudocrustacea nov. (for Burgessida nov., Waptida nov., Hymenocarina Clarke-Raymond) and ? Arthropleurida which groups together form the Trilobitomorpha subphylum nov. defined as "Aquatic Arachnomorpha with a cephalon provided mostly with 4 postoral somites. Preoral antennae present, other appendages of trilobitan type. Parts of trilobitan appendages may be reduced, those of anterior and posterior somites may be more strongly modified." Nothing definite known of the origin of the Trilobitomorpha but generally thought to have evolved "from polychaete or more primitive annelids." Arachnomorpha termed a "phylum" of equal taxonomic value to Myriapoda-Insecta, Crustacea and Pantopoda, STØRMER 110.

General Evolution of Group.—Protoparia most primitive order, by retardation of dorsal development of pre-antennal segment Opisthoparia evolved, by further dorsal retardation of this segment come the Proparia, so "although the opisthoparians pass through a proparian stage of development the Opisthoparia are more primitive than the Proparia," STØRMER 108.

Neoteny.—Probably operates in Evolution of Opisthoparia into Proparia Partial neoteny (merostasis) used to explain supposed delayed dorsal development of "pre-antennal segment" in the larva, to become established in the adults only in later forms, STØRMER 108.

Phylogeny of Redlichidae discussed and concluded that the family is derived from "Primitive Opisthoparia" and that Mesonacidae represent another evolutionary line from such a derivative; "Paradoxidae" derived from Mesonacidae not from Redlichidae, LU 47.

Evolutionary trends in *Asteropyge facial sutures, R. & E. RICHTER 94.—The Upper Cambrian genus Loganopeltoides with only pre-ocular facial sutures considered to have evolved into the Lower Ordovician hypoparian genus Loganopeltis, RASETTI 68.

Classification.—Four orders recognised as follows

I. Protoparia.—Swinerton's order emended and redefined as "Primitive trilobites with ventro-marginal or marginal cephalic suture; lateral eyes well developed; preantennal segment well developed on dorsal side of protaspis; intergenal spines present in Anaprotaspis, Metaprotaspis, Meraspis and partly Holaspis Periods. Lower Cambrian. Superfamily Olenellidae (= Mesonacidae)."

II. Hypoparia.—Beecher's order provisionally maintained and regarded as an early offshoot of Protoparia defined as "Trilobites with marginal, supra-marginal or ventromarginal? suture; lateral eyes absent or little developed; protaspis broad with preantennal segment probably well developed on dorsal side; intergenal spines absent in Meraspid and later Periods. Middle Cambrian?—Upper Devonian. Superfamilies: Cryptolithidae, Harpidae, Raphiophoridae?, Agnostidae?, Shumardiidae?"

III. Opisthoparia.—"Trilobites with facial suture crossing the margin behind genal angles, at the corners of which genal spines might occur; protaspis with preantennal segment slightly or not developed on dorsal side; intergenal spines present in the Metaprotaspis and Meraspid Periods. Lower Cambrian—Permian. All remaining superfamilies exclusive of the Proparia."

IV. Proparia.—"Trilobites with facial suture crossing the margin in front of genal angles, at the corner of which intergenal spines might occur; protaspis with preantennal segment not developed on dorsal side, intergenal spines present in Metaprotaspis and later Periods. Lower Cambrian—Lower Carboniferous. Superfamilies: Eodiscidae, Norwoodiidae, Burlingidae, Phacopidae." STØRMER 108.

Classification.—Eodiscidea used as a superfamily name by Richter, raised to a suborder by Whitehouse now used as the name of an order, RASETTI 69.—Phacopidea, R. & E. RICHTER 93.—Agnostidea (including Eodiscidae), Olenellidea, Corynexochidea, Olenidea (including Ellipsocephalidae), Conocoryphidea considered as superfamilies discussed and emended, R. & E. RICHTER 89.—Agnostidae, R. RICHTER 81.—R. & E. RICHTER 89.
